Project Description

The Office of the Director of National Intelligence (ODNI) has committed to a new Transparency initiative, to be instituted across the entire Intelligence Community (IC) (16 different Agencies). This initiative requires a big shift in the thinking and mindset of the existing IC employees. The challenge is to create written (newsletter articles) and digital material (graphics, art, videos) that will educate the IC on the new initiative, and create compelling material that shows them the benefits of embracing the new Transparency initiative.

IC employees worry that any “Transparency” will put sources and methods of intelligence gathering at risk, and this makes them hesitant to participate in any Transparency projects. We need to convince them that we can bring some Transparency to what we do, while still keeping the secrets we need to, and without jeopardizing our sources and methods of intelligence gathering.
